MEFF adapts its Block trade Portal to the security standards of the SIX Group

MEFF

12 November 2025

MEFF Updates the Block Trade Portal (Meff Trade Entry) to Align with SIX Group Security Standards.

In line with its commitment to meeting the performance and security standards of the SIX Group, MEFF has updated the Block trade Portal (Meff Trade Entry) to comply with the newly established requirements.

No functional changes have been made to the portal, and all trader databases configured by users will remain unaffected.

The main change concerns the login procedure. From now on, member-user identification will be carried out using an email address associated with the operator. Additionally, as an extra security measure, users will be required to install the FUTURAE application to enable two-factor authentication (the same app will be needed for both the test and production environments).

A single member-user may be associated with multiple operators, who can be connected simultaneously. They will share all user information and the trader database; however, each operator will log in with their mail address and must complete two-factor authentication using the FUTURAE app.

Due to this change, all current operators must re-register by completing the attached user registration template and sending the information to meffmarketservices@grupobme.es

The new access method, available in the member training environment since September 29, will be enabled in the production environment starting November 14 via the following: <https://trading.bolsasymercados.es/brokerMeff>

During a two-month transition period, both access methods will coexist:

- The current method via the usual URL.
- The new method with two-factor authentication.

From mid-January 2026, the current access method will be permanently disabled.

Given the impact of this change, MEFF strongly recommends migrating to the new system as soon as possible to avoid service disruptions.

ACCESS INSTRUCTIONS

Access is provided through the following website:

<https://trading.bolsasymercados.es/brokerMeff>

FIRST LOGIN

1. The user must request registration as a new user on the Block Trade Portal (regardless of whether they already have an assigned username). Once MEFF has registered the user an email will be sent with a default password.
